

Math Professor Receives Grant For Summer Study

Mr. John Thomas Johnson has been at Loyola College less than a semester and a half. Already the students in his classes and many other students know that Mr. Johnson is an excellent mathematician. His teaching prowess is also known to many.

Recently Mr. Johnson has been awarded a grant for twelve weeks study this summer. The National Science Foundation Summer Institute for college teachers of Mathematics at the University of Illinois has awarded Mr. Johnson the grant.

GRANT WINNER: Mr. John Thomas Johnson will study at Illinois U., this summer.

The University of Illinois is located at Urbana, Illinois and is known for its digital computer equipment. One famous computer, Iliac, is housed there.

NSF Plans

The grant covers tuition, matriculation fees, transportation, and a generous living allowance. On account of its dependence on annual appropriations from Congress, the NSF cannot commit itself beyond one year; it intends, however, to renew such grants annually for four years.

English Majors Read Scholarly Literary Works

By Bill Legg, Ass't News Editor

Last week at the meeting of the Literary Honor Society, Lambda Iota Tau, Michael Abromaitis, Senior English major, delivered a thesis on "Machiavellian Concepts in Richard III." At a previous meeting, Fred Smith delivered a paper on "Symbolism in Romantic Poetry," which was very well received.

The purpose of Lambda Iota Tau is to "recognize excellence in the study of any literature." Members of the fraternity, which now numbers weight, meet to present literary discussions and programs in honor of prominent writers.

All members are English majors and are admitted to the society by invitation upon the deliverance of a paper of some length and merit to the assembly.

Next Meeting

At the next meeting Mike Magrogan will deliver a paper on Emily Dickinson. Meetings are held only when papers are to be delivered.

All English majors are welcome at meetings, but Frank Berghoff especially promotes the attendance of Junior English majors.

L.I.T. MEMBERS: (l. to r.) Berghoff, Magrogan, and Smith study the next L.I.T. talk.

THE GREYHOUND

Vol. XXXV, No. 20

Loyola College—Baltimore 10, Maryland

March 16, 1962

Loyola's History and French Departments Sponsor Student Honors Projects

During the second semester six students are participating in an Honors Project in History II and five students are participating in an Honors Project in advanced French.

The five in the French Project are; sophomores Charles Cherry, Alex Cummings, Brian Copenhaver, and Frank Walsh and junior Ron Yakaitis. Those in the History Project are; Rich Lawrence, Paul Montgomery, Charles Cherry, Jim DeBoy, Brian Copenhaver, and Joe Metz. Moderators are Fr. Campbell and Dr. Kirwin for the History Project and Mr. Colimore for the French Project.

FRENCH SEMINAR MEMBERS: (l. to r.) Brian Copenhaver, Frank Walsh, Alex Cummings, and Charlie Cherry. Absent is junior, Kon Yakaitis.

The topic of the French project is "French Catholic Authors of the Twentieth Century." The students read a work a week by such authors as Claudel Mauriac, Jammes, etc., and report on it to the seminar. In addition, each student will prepare a literary study of his particular author for possible publication in the Evergreen Quarterly. In addition to extensive reading of their author's works, the students also Consult critical articles in scholarly publications.

Hist. Project

The History project covers essentially the same matter as the regular classes, but in much greater depth.

Readings

Each session of the seminar is devoted to a discussion of a single topic for which the students have prepared by considerable outside reading. The students are also required to prepare an extensive paper based on contemporary sources.

Excused

The students of both Projects are excused from attendance at regular classes in order to devote their time to the extensive reading required for participation.

Yearbook Drive For Subscriptions Helps Guarantee A Big Success

The Evergreen Annual reports success in their recent drive for underclassman subscriptions. Although there remains a necessity for more underclassman subscriptions in order to complete the extended budget, trends indicate that these will be obtained.

The '62 Evergreen will be somewhat of a departure both in size and style from previous annuals. Color will be used more extensively than it has been in any student publication to date.

New Book

The book has been thoroughly planned to facilitate total coverage of each extracurricular and athletic activity. Honors programs and seminars will also be included as will team pictures of the Athletic activities at the College.

Underclassmen will also be given a good representation since the '62 Evergreen is a "yearbook" covering all school functions, as opposed to a "class-book" of the type published last year.

The result will be a full and comprehensive commentary on Loyola College as it is presently—a book that will provide lasting enjoyment to all its subscribers.

Editorial

Annual Agony

In past issues, the Greyhound has endeavored to do everything in its power to aid its "sister activities" both by giving them the publicity which they require and by aiding them in the solution of the difficulties with which they are concerned. Currently we have taken a great interest in the plight of another campus publication, The Evergreen Annual.

Our interest in the yearbook has been greatly stimulated because of the unusual problem with which this organization is currently faced. The problem is dissimilar to those which have recently faced other activities, because it is not one which is due to poor preparation on the part of the activity members. On the contrary, this year's editorial board is composed of very conscientious and hard working individuals. The problem in this situation is one which concerns insufficient funds.

In order to overcome their dilemma, the present yearbook staff has begun a subscription drive among the underclassmen and is depending on the proceeds from this drive to finance their coming publication. At present, however, the subscription campaign is falling short of expectations, and unless student interest increases, the venture is doomed to failure. We of the Greyhound feel that a failure in this area must be avoided at all cost and urge the underclassmen to lend their support to the current subscription campaign.

P. A. G.

the Watchdog?!

Alex Cumming's achievements here at Loyola now include marksman ship on the rifle range. It seems that his recently scored total of 12 points in the lousiest score ever registered in the history of R.O. T.C. at Loyola.

Better shoot left-handed next time, Alex!

Confidential to Dan Galuzzo: Report to the arms room for your D, T. shots.

Jim Smith's request to be permitted to wear a black leather jacket and motorcycle boots to classes has been turned down by the Dean of Men.

If anyone finds a pair of shoes and socks in L-104, please return them to Kenny Friemuth who left them there after one of last week's philosophy classes.

We understand Mike Fahey gave up smoking--it's too embarrassing everytime he lights up a match.

Lefty Reitz is seriously considering Bill Smuck's application for gym instruction.

Company I-II of the Scabbard and Blade would appreciate it if Mr. O'Donovan would stop using the swords of the pledges for stage props in his philosophy classes.

Mike McGrogan's chances for graduate school were pretty good until Dr. Hands caught him reading the "Classic Comic" version of "Huckleberry Finn."

Marty Maher, freshman singing sensation, has just released a new record of "Where Have All the Flowers Gone."

Different members of the basketball team have been seen reading "The Manly Art of Self-Defense" after their last basketball game.

Don Wallenhorst feels that the Dog should build a house in D.C. I wonder why (ha, ha)!

C.O.D.

The Greyhound

Vol. XXXV, No. 20

March 16, 1962

Student publication of Loyola College, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore 10, Maryland. Published weekly during regular day sessions.

Entered as second-class matter at the Baltimore, Md. post office. Postage paid at Post Office Baltimore, Md. Telephone-ID. 5-2500.

The Greyhound is a publication by and for the students, and the opinions expressed therein are not necessarily the views of the college Administration. Official pronouncements of the Administration will be so designated.

Editor-in-Chief: Peter O'Genovese, Jr.; Managing Editor: Henry O'Becker; News Co-Editors: Dave O'Schroeder and Frank O'Walsh; Features Co-Editors: James O'Burns and William O'Hoffman; Sports Editor: Thomas O'Kenney; Copy Editor: Bob O'Johnston; Business Manager: Robert O'Bell; Art Editor: J. Barry O'Tillman; Exchange Co-Editors: Jim O'Eckstein and Mark O'Fayman; Photo Editor: Edward O'Slawski; Staff-News: William O'Legg-Ass't. Ed., Robert O'Quirk, Bill O'Reese, Mike O'Reilley, Donald O'Rohleder; Bill O'Scholtz; Staff-Features: G. Paul O'Montgomery-Ass't. Ed., Al O'Poklemba, Jerry O'Heggan, Joe O'Bowman, Charles O'Donnell, Jim O'Clarke, John O'Resse, Frank O'Rosofsky; Staff-Sports: Jim O'Latchford-Ass't. Ed., Phil O'Pierpont, Bob O'Schu, Tom O'Newcombe, Charlie O'Cherry; Staff-Copy: Walter O'Miles, Ken O'Dawson, Ron O'Kuzmick; Moderator: Father J. O'Conlin, S.J.

A Son of Erin

John Kilkenny

Tomorrow being Saint Patrick's Day, The Greyhound fittingly salutes one of Loyola's finest Irish students, John Kilkenny. John, the oldest of six children, has his permanent home in Massapequa, Long Island, New York, where he attended Massapequa High School.

"Killer"

John is best known to Loyola College students as a member of the Varsity Basketball Team. He has been on the team for his entire four years at Evergreen, and has been a constant aid to the quint. Known to the basketball fans as "Killer," he is always exciting the spectators with his quick movements, excellent shooting, and never-ending drive. Besides his career as a basketball player, John has been a member of the Green and Grey Club and is now an active member of the Block L Club.

Where's My Jeep?

John is a Cadet Captain in the Reserved Officers' Training Corps, and, upon graduation, he will travel to Fort Eustis, Virginia, where he will serve in the Transportation Corps of the Army.

Gift to Gab

To those students who know John personally, he is an excellent con-

John Kilkenny—Economist

Irish Facts

Below are some of the more important dates in Irish History:

- 396--Saint Patrick born.
- 432--Saint Patrick comes to Ireland to convert the Irish.
- 493--Saint Patrick dies.
- 1155--Henry II of England claims Ireland in the name of Pope Adrian and the Church of Rome.
- 1873--Federal Home Rule Movement formed with "home rule" as its objective.
- 1919--The Irish Republic Army (I.R.A.) was organized with the purpose of fighting the British.
- 1920--Ireland gets "home rule."
- 1921--Ireland proclaimed a free and independent country and given the status of "Commonwealth" in the British Commonwealth of Nations.
- 1962--The I.R.A. disbanded because of lack of support from the people.

Where's My Jeep

versationalist. He can discuss topics ranging from Basketball to Statistics. He also has a great sense of humor which enables him to liven-up any college "bull session."

John is an Economics major, and has done well while at Loyola. In fact, he has accomplished one feat that many of his fellow seniors could not, that is, he passed the Statistics course. When asked about any academic changes at Loyola since he came, John said, "Loyola is constantly striving for greater academic achievements."

The Groom

John got married on August 26, 1961, to a girl who lived around the corner from him in Massapequa. To raise and support his family after he gets out of the Army, John hopes to work for the Hiram Walker Liquor Company.

While at Loyola, John has shown that he has determination and ambition. He will carry this with him wherever he goes, and will always succeed. Good luck in the future, John, Loyola College will miss you, but will always be proud to include you in her alumni because you will carry her name into the future loyally and proudly.

The Greyhound salutes John Kilkenny—a true Son of Erin and a true Son of the Green and Grey.

What do you know!! Loyola needs a fallout shelter too.

Slawski Sez

El Cid is Samuel Bronston's latest gargantua. This motion picture has epic proportions at least as far as length is concerned. Featuring such luminaries as Charlton Heston, Sophia Loren, Raf Vallone, and Herbert Lom, the show does not measure up to expectations.

El Cid (Charlton Heston) is the legendary medieval hero who by his dauntless courage and unflinching loyalty, solves the dilemma of who would hold the reigns in Spain. Big Cid, on his way to marry Sophia Loren captured a few Moorish raiders. When he refuses to surrender his prisoners and frees them, he is accused of treason. Displeased by this accusation, Cid knocks off Sophia's papa, which, naturally, postpones their prospective marriage. Now, after an hour, the show briefly picks up pace. The battle between the champions of Aragon and Castille injected some much needed life in the show. But, alas, exhausted from their brief extension, the show again slows down to its snail's pace.

Having killed his opponent in the duel, Heston finally gets Loren. Sophia is not very happy with this but it doesn't matter because El Cid goes off on a goodwill tour of the country. However, the not-so-good King Alfonso exiles El Cid. Mrs. Cid follows and after two and a half hours, they spend their first night together. After a badly needed intermission (to restore Circulation), there are a number of shots of El Cid and his army all dressed up with nowhere to go. Faithful to the legend, if not to history, the movie ends in a blaze of glory (accompanied by equally glorious organ music).

The scenes are beautiful. The theme music is pleasant. The actors, considering the burden of the screenplay, do a fairly creditable job. The show is just too long and drawn out-it drags terribly. Anthony Mann has directed a series of scenes. Their continuity is sometimes hard to perceive. For intensity, I suppose, there are long pauses throughout which tend to slow down the machinery that much the more.

El Cid, like too many other film "epics" suffers from extreme length. Although it presents a spectacular pageant of color, it prompts one to wonder if theatres aren't for sleeping.

E. J. S.

Personal Service To Your Order

Baltimore Chair Co.

4004 ORCHARD STREET

SALES AND RENTALS

Chairs, Tables, etc.

D. V. London
LE. 9-4312

R. W. London
LE. 9-1025

Saint Patrick and The Greyhounds

The following is the full text of a letter sent to Father Beatty by Father Robert McNally, Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Woodstock. It concerns the connection between Saint Patrick and the greyhound, official mascot of Loyola College.

* * * *

With the approach of St. Patrick's Day I should like to call to your attention a striking connection between the Greyhound of Loyola College and the two most celebrated relics of Old Ireland, the Confession of St. Patrick and the Book of Kells, the one literary, the other artistic.

It is a well known fact that St. Patrick (or Magonus Sucatus Patricius, as he was known in his day), the first litterateur in Ireland, left behind him a most precious document, the Confession, in which he recounts in a very moving fashion the history of his conversion and his special relation to Ireland. To students of Loyola College it may be of interest to note that when St. Patrick escaped from slavery in Ireland about the year 407, he departed for the continent on a ship carrying a cargo of greyhounds which were destined for the sports arenas of the Late Roman Empire. Since this miraculous escape of St. Patrick from Ireland was a key episode in his life, and since—judging from his own account of it—the only passengers aboard that pirate ship who were kind to him were the greyhounds, from an early date the greyhound was peculiarly associated with St. Patrick in Ireland.

From a much later date, but still quite early, we have a most authentic work of Irish art, a Gospel codex, which figures prominently in the history of Western culture. It is known as the Book of Kells and is currently preserved in Trinity College, Dublin. According to an ancient legend this manuscript was supposed to have been transcribed by angels, since it seemed to surpass human effort. It dates from about the year 800 and may have been prepared in St. Columcille's monastery at Iona. Among the fantastic decorative pieces that are found throughout this work, the greyhound-figures occupy a distinguished place. Thus, to cite one example, we find on folio 19 verso an authentic greyhound sitting in the middle of the page and separating the word Iesum (Jesus) from the word pastoribus (shepherd). This example happens to be one of the remarkable instances of the curious Irish scribe device known as "the head under wing" or "turn under the path" indicating a complicated rearrangement of the text which could only be the product of the Old Irish mind.

A most perfect facsimile of this wondrous work of art is preserved in the vault of The Pratt Library in Baltimore. I wonder whether some gifted student of Loyola could reproduce for The College a more authentic Old Irish greyhound to represent Loyola College of Baltimore? It is only a suggestion.

At all events, I only wished to transmit these few notes to you at this time of the year with the hope that they might prove of interest to the students of The College in connecting its traditional symbol with some very remote, romantic episodes in the history of art and literature.

Fr. Robert McNally, S.J.

ERIN

GO

BRAGH!

Musical Notes

This coming week features around Baltimore a variety of musical events to suit the tastes of any enthusiastic music follower. Tonight, Arthur Rubinstein, possible one of the greatest living pianists today, will be at the Lyric. Accompanied by the Baltimore Symphony, Mr. Rubinstein will feature a program including Beethoven's Emperor Concerto. Next Tuesday and Wednesday, also at the Lyric, will be presented the classical guitar of Andres Segovia.

Cannonball Concert

The following Sunday, March 25, Cannonball Adderley and his group will play a selection of jazz music at Morgan State College. The group includes Shirley Scott at the organ and Ethel Ennis, a Baltimore girl, as vocalist. It will be a semi-lecture type of concert in which the various types of jazz musical arrangements are explained. There will be two shows that day, one at 5 o'clock and another at 8 o'clock. Prices for the tickets will be $2.50 for balcony seats and $3.50 for reserved seats.

Gala Gershwin

The following Sunday, March 31, the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra will present at the Lyric an all-Gershwin program which will include the Cuban Overture. Tickets for this performance are on sale from $.50 to $2.50.

Geo. W. Radebaugh & Sons
FLORISTS

VA. 5-430 120 Burke Ave.

CHARLES E. HERGET

BROKER and COUNSELOR for
ALL FORMS OF INSURANCE

LE. 9-2150 ID. 3-8444

FRANK LEONARD
UNIVERSITY SHOP

Clothing and Accessories
For The Student
5902 YORK ROAD
ID. 5-9797

QUALITY DIAMONDS FINE WATCHES

Kibler's
JEWELERS

Waverly
3222 Greenmount Ave.
BE. 5-6084

Towson
525 York Road-VA. 5-1145

SAVE 20% to 40%
On Quality Ivy Clothing
M. GOLDBERG

Quality Clothing Discount Stores
1413 E. Cold Spring Lane
TU. 9-5242

GREYHOUND SPORTS

by Tom Kenney

It hardly seems likely in view of recent weather condition, but spring sports time is upon us. The Hounds Lacrosse home opener against Ohio State is a mere week from today. The first baseball contest on the schedule is only ten days off. The Hound Nine will open on March 26 against Bowdoin of Maine. Tennis will begin for Mr. Colimore's charges against Catholic U. here on Thursday, March 29. On Saturday, March 31, at noon, the Hound trackmen will kick off their season with a dual meet against C.U. Last, but certainly not least, Loyola's golfers will open the home links season at Mt. Pleasant on April 4 against American University.

All of the Hound spring teams are in the process of rebuilding. On the five spring squads combined, there is a total of only ten seniors, an average of two per team. Another side of rebuilding is the personnel losses suffered by graduation, etc.

However, before we write off 1962 as a rebuilding year, let's recall the Hound aquatic, mat and cage squads had a total of only eight seniors among them. Their lack of experience was certainly not too noticeable in their fine seasons.

Baseball Opener Against Bowdoin Ten Days Away

A week from Monday the Loyola baseball team opens its season against Bowdoin College here at 3 p.m. This game will kick off one of the roughest schedules the Hound nine has had in years. The baseballers will face Bowdoin, West Virginia, Rider, and Harvard besides their Mason Dixon opponents.

Lineup

Phil Potter who had 5 of the Hound's 9 victories last year along with Jim Kenney, Mike Elliot, John Campbell, and Ed Burchell are leading returnees. Dave Marshall, a hard-hitting centerfielder, returns after a year's inactivity. Bill Falkenham and George Yurek from last year's reserves and Bill Heidel, Bob Rossi and John Kircher, leading Freshmen, hope to break into the starting line-up.

Home Games

Mar. 26	Bowdoin College	3:00
Mar. 29	Bowdoin College	3:00
Mar. 31	West Va. Univ.	3:00
Apr. 2	Rider College	3:00
Apr. 7	Harvard Univ.	1:00
Apr. 10	Catholic Univ.	3:00
Apr. 12	Balto. Univ.	1:00
Apr. 14	Johns Hopkins	2:30
Apr. 17	Georgetown Univ.	3:00
Apr. 28	Mt. St. Mary (D. H.)	1:30
May 4	Randolph-Macon	3:00
May 7	Towson State	3:00

Bill Smuck

Ohio State To Oppose Hound Ten In Opener

The Hound stickmen's season opener is now a mere week away. Ohio State will furnish the opposition in the initial test next Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. Although the weather has hampered the outdoor practices of Coach Charley Wentzels' squad, the stickmen have had some snappy indoor practice sessions and appear to be in fairly good condition. The Hounds' starting ten is not definite as yet. In the attack positions, Mike Abromaitis, Mary Pilsch, Page Fried, Jack Remmell and Buzz Deitz appear to have the inside tract at present. John Stewart, Marty Schnuit and Butch Emmett head the midfield contingent but the presence of promising Freshmen, Marty Pilachowski, Bob Fink, Jim Norton, Jack Palmer, and Lou Becker indicates the possibility of a wide open fight for the midfield spots. The defense will be headed by Captain Ham Dugan who will be aided by Marty Quinn, Denny Fahey, Tommy Milligan and some fine-looking newcomers. Darrell Russell, Wayne Thompson, and Harry Bregel are goalie candidates.

The next home contest is with Cornell on Friday, March 30th.

Hound Trackmen Open Against C. U. March 31

With their first meet only two weeks away, the Loyola thinclads have been training diligently for the past few weeks in the gym under the tutelage of Coach Bill McElroy and co-captain Bill Smuck. Arnie Sapperstein, co-captain with Smuck, is the squad's big gun—as reigning M-D 100 and 220 champ. Rick Frampton, M-D mile king, Senior Lew Smith and Hank McGraw will probably be called upon to handle the heavy burden of the distances. Smuck and Rick Campbell—backed up by Lew Klein, Charlie Kelly, Marty Stuelher, and Frosh John Palmar will be handling the weights this season. Tom Kenney—team 440 yd. record holder—Dan Leubecker and Freshman Tony Miller are the Hounds' quarter men. Sophs Tony Ryan-finalist last season in the M-D 100—and Phil Pierpont—also number one broadjumper—find their sprint monopoly threatened by exchange student Joe Gathunga.

Charlie Cherry—last year's surprise in the highjump—is teamed with Charlie Kyper and Jim Smith, also a broadjumper. Freshman Bill Simpson is the sole candidate for the dubious honor of number one hurdler. Junior Denny Lingenfelter is the only vet in the pole vault, but he will probably be backed by a willing beginner—Soph Barry Holland.

Hound Riflemen Oppose Morgan For State Title

This afternoon, Loyola College's R.O.T.C. Rifle Team will fire against Morgan State College. At stake for the Hounds in this match is the State Round-Robin Championship. In the event that the Hound riflemen defeat Morgan today, they will bring home the title. Earlier in the season Loyola had defeated Western Maryland in the initial round of the Round-Robin event by a score of 1371-1371 (won on standing score). The victory was the first one ever earned by Loyola over the Green Terrors of Westminster. In the second round of the Tournament Loyola downed Johns Hopkins University 1384-1334, thus gaining the finals of the Tourney. Last year's Tournament victor was Western Maryland.

Thus far in the season, Loyola's marksmen have a 7-4 dual match record. They have also had three ties, a real rarity in firing competition. Ties are decided on the scores earned in the standing position, since accuracy is most difficult in this position. The Hounds took two out of the three tie matches.

Stickman—Ham Dugan

Annual Faculty-Student Contest Set Wednesday

This coming Wednesday regular basketball league games will be suspended in favor of the annual Faculty-Intramural All Stars Basketball game. Lefty Reitz will return to the coaching ranks in hopes of leading the Faculty to another victory. The Intramural Basketball League competition neared its half-way point last week and 10 teams remain. The Polar Bears, Porky Pigs, Foul Baegels, and Dukes are leading the pack at this time. Last week's action saw the Polar Bears coast to their third victory over the previously unbeaten Mavericks 56 to 39. Cherry and Van Daniker hit for double figures for the Polar Bears. Gomsack and French tossed in 12 apiece for the Mavericks. The Hawks edged the Sharks 29 to 24.

Other Scorers

Luebecker and Carlson were high scorers for the Hawks and Brown led the Sharks. In the other games the Penguins lost to the Dukes 20 to 28 and the 1.5's topped the Thumpers. The Dukes' Schroeter scored 20 of the team's 28 points, and Schnock was high scorer for the Penguins. Jim Nosker set a new intramural record in fouling out in one-half of plan in the Penguin contest. The Stricker led Thumpers was not enough to halt the 1.5's Lawler and Rash. All in all, the seasons intramurals have been well supported and the future of intramural Athletics looks very bright at Evergreen.

INTRAMURAL ACTION: Wednesday's intra-mural basketball action gets under way.

Captain—Denny Homberg